AnxiKalm Compete

Start the season on a calm note with AnxiKalm Compete, from Nutri-Science. Some horses are naturally nervous animals and some are affected by particular situations such as travelling, competitions, sales, and clipping. Horses also have different thresholds in how they react to particular situations and as such you need a calming supplement flexible enough to adapt to various situations.

The key ingredient of AnxiKalm Compete is L-Tryptophan, which is an amino acid that is converted to serotonin, the 'happy hormone' in the body. Combined with Vitamin B it is known to decrease anxiety and reduce the feelings that create stress. AnxiKalm Compete also contains Magnesium, which has been shown to have a long term calming effect. Ideal for horses that are constantly nervous or easily distracted, AnxiKalm Compete reduces the risk of panic during stressful situations and has an immediate calming effect that does not affect performance.

AnxiKalm is also available in a gel form which is given directly into the mouth, making it ideal for particularly stressful situations such as travelling or competitions.

AnxiKalm Compete and the entire Nutri-Science range are distributed in Ireland by Mackey Ireland. For more information see www.mackeyequestrian.com
